Message to Lewisham parents and carers of primary-school-age children

Dear Parents and Carers

Across the country and particularly in London and the South East, Coronavirus continues to spread rapidly and Lewisham's infection rate is at its highest ever level. We must all stay at home as much as possible. This is why schools have been asked to remain open only for critical worker and vulnerable children.

Our schools are working hard to deliver teaching and learning both to pupils at home and those attending on site and to keep children and adults who are on site as safe as possible.

Keeping the number of people in schools as low as possible

We need to ensure that the number of children in schools is kept as low as possible, whilst making sure that children who need to be in school can be.

The government says that this is not because schools have become less safe for children and young people. Having fewer people in schools is about reducing the overall number of contacts everyone has in the community, which is important to help reduce the pressure on the NHS.

During this lockdown, children should stay at home where possible.

Critical workers

The government guidance during lockdown says that parents and carers who are critical workers should keep their children at home if they can.

Please only use the offer of a school place when it is crucial for you to undertake your critical role. If you can make an alternative arrangement, we ask you to consider this. Your child's school will speak to parents and carers to identify who needs to go to school and also may ask for evidence that your work is critical to the COVID-19 response or EU Transition.

Vulnerable children and young people – including those with education, health and care plans or a social worker

If your child/ren has an education, health and care plan (EHCP) and/or an allocated social worker or other circumstances listed at the link below they may attend their school. Your school will have contacted you if your child/ren should be coming in and will discuss arrangements with you. Please get in touch with the school if you have any queries.

Government advice on leaving children unattended

There is no law about when you can leave your child on their own but it is an offence to leave them alone if it places them at risk. As parents, you should use your judgement on how mature your child is before you decide to leave them at home. As a guide, the NSPCC recommends that children under 12 are rarely mature enough to be left alone for a long period of time, children under 16 shouldn't be left alone overnight and babies, toddlers and very young children should never be left alone.

Community testing for critical workers

If you are a parent or carer currently working in a critical role and unable to work from home, you can now book an appointment for a rapid COVID-19 test which will give you results in under an hour.

Rapid tests are only open to children over the age of 11.

Rapid tests are only available to people who do NOT have COVID-19 symptoms.

We recognise the challenges everyone is facing at the moment, particularly families with children and young people.
